Deer in the headlights: Do you brake or do you swerve?

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

You're driving along the highway in the evening as the sun is setting, travelling at the speed limit when a deer bounds out onto the road in front of you. What do you do? Although there is often very little time to analyze the situation and react, that split-second decision can be an important one. The consensus is apply the brakes, stay in your lane and hope for the best.

When a collision with a deer is imminent, the right choice can be a life saver.

"There are several viewpoints," said Insurance Adjuster Brent Clarkson of Haliburton County Adjusting Service. "From a driver's viewpoint, it's generally better to break and hit the deer than to swerve in an attempt to miss it."

When investigating claims, Clarkson said some insurance companies will look for signs of an impact with a deer and if there are none, they question the presence of a deer and look for a different cause. "A dead deer at the scene eliminates that question," he said candidly.

He noted that swerving to miss a deer often results in loss of control and a vehicle rollover.

Clarkson pointed out that when a claim is filed, if a deer is hit, it is a comprehensive claim as opposed to a collision claim if an animal is not involved.

"A dead deer at the scene eliminates the question [of the cause of the accident]"

BRENT CLARKSON

"With the increasing bear numbers, there are more bears being hit by cars," Clarkson said, "and that's a different scenario."

He noted that bears are a lot more solid than a deer and there is a higher potential for damage or injury. The same applies to moose, which are more likely to come in contact with a windshield during a collision.

Don't count on a moose's eyes giving it away in the headlights after dark. "A moose's eyes don't reflect the light like other animals," he said.

Ministry of Natural Resources biologist Gerry Moraal, of the Minden office, said moose eyes do reflect light, but compared to a deer, they are not as

Lake quality comes first, planners are told

by ALLISON TAYLOR

Huddled in somewhat intense round table discussions, at least 60 ratepayers were at the Minden Community Centre July 27 to start talking about Minden Hills' official plan.

"This is part of my responsibility of being a citizen of the community," said Max Radcliff, who attended the morning workshop to toss some ideas around, and get issues such as shoreline protection, out in the open.

"We are here to start taking about things and to tell [council] where we would like to township to go into the future," he said.

Echoing Radcliff's determination to make a difference in the community, many other participants said they attended the meeting because they were interested in the community, and wanted to preserve the area.

"We want to direct change," said Ed Brinsmead, "This type of a meeting is open for people to express their opinions instead of just the council telling us it was going to be a certain way."

Paul Heaven said that if he didn't attend the meetings that dealt with community matters, "then I would have a hard time complaining about things later on."

The meeting was organized by Planscape, the consulting company hired by Minden Hills to prepare the document that outlines how the township wants to grow. The official plan usually places an emphasis on land use planning, but also ensures that economic, environment and social interests are balanced in the interests of the community.

"The official plan sets out overall development concepts and development policies," says Jacquie Tschekalin, senior planner at Planscape.

Right now the township has two official plans, one for the former townships of Lutterworth, and Anson, Hindon and Minden. Snowdon didn't have one.

The idea is to bring the two official plans together, and to create one up-to-date document for Minden Hills.

Some of the ideas discussed at the full-day meeting included the environment; lake capacity; the vision for the township or how the township should develop; development standards and transportation, just to name a few.

Groups of people were divided into the specific categories and they started to brainstorm on poster-sized paper, listing the weaknesses, strengths and ways to improve the issue at hand.

For example, one group discussing lake capacity wrote the townships' strengths included: excellent water quality, strong property and lake associations and healthy shorelines. On the other side of the coin, the weaknesses were: lack of septic inspections, which they felt should be mandatory before property sales could go through.

Another group suggested the township should have a slogan, while on the other side of the room a tree cutting bylaw was being recommended.

Destruction of wetlands by development, roadside maintenance, and ensuring the official plan was reviewed every five years, were other issues that rose from the discussions.

Tschekalin, and the rest of the team from Planscape, took the piles of recommendations home and will work toward compiling all the information and ideas they heard throughout the day.

For Tschekalin, the main message she heard from the meeting was that residents want development in the area, but they want to put the environment first.

"It's really a subtle difference," she said. "There has to be balance between the two."

Reeve Ross Rigney was pleased with the turnout of ratepayers and concerned residents.

"There are representatives from several lake associations and that's the group that we needed to attract because they have to realize that they fit into the totality of the plan," Rigney said during the meeting.

While many of the participants were confident their voices and concerns would be heard, they understood the process still had a long way to go.

"This is an important stage and it gives people a chance to have their say before the writing of the document is done," said Reg Hallway, "but there is still a long way to go."

In addition to the official plan, the township also has three different zoning by-laws that need to be amalgamated into one, Tschekalin says.

First Planscape will work toward generating issue papers, which provide background information on all the individual issues within the official plan. This information will eventually be posted on the township's website and a draft copy of the official plan, Tschekalin says she hopes to have completed by January 2003, will also be posted on the website: www.minden.on.ca. For more information, contact the planning administrator at 286-1541.

bright and may be more difficult to see. With regard to deer in the path of vehicles, Moraal said, "You never know which way they will move."

OPP Staff Sergeant Bob Walli said there is only one way to guarantee you won't encounter a deer on the road: "Don't drive," he quipped.

Walli offered a few tips that may minimize the possibility of a collision with a deer. Stay within the speed limit; be alert - scan the roadsides as far ahead as possible; use high beams at night whenever possible; watch for the reflection of eyes; be especially vigilant where the forest is close to the road; and pay attention to deer crossing signs. "The warning signs are posted in problem areas," he said.

As to whether or not you should take evasive action to avoid a collision with a deer, Walli said it would depend on the circumstances. He said if the side of the road is level (such as a field with no ditch or fence) or if there is a snowbank to cushion the impact, he said he might opt for evasive action. Otherwise, he agrees that braking and taking your chances on hitting the deer is probably the best option. Oncoming traffic would also be a factor to consider.

Aside from the potential for injury, damage from a deer-car collision can be expensive. Jim Carrell of Minden Collision Services said the average is between $1,500 and $4,000.

The good news is that an encounter with a deer rarely results in the animal hurtling through the windshield after impact. "I don't see a lot of deer coming in contact with a windshield, even with smaller cars," Carrell said. "They will take out a headlight, the grill and the hood, but most often they will roll off to one side or the other, sometimes causing damage to the side of the car."

Carrell said the cost of repairs really starts to add up when damage extends into the radiator and the mechanical parts of a vehicle's engine.

World Youth Day was a spirited, incredible celebration for local family

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

World Youth Day events in Toronto were a family affair for one Our Lady of Fatima, family – the Grays.

Julie Gray says her entire family participated at various levels. She and her husband attended all of the events, her daughter Larissa helped to organize the week-long events around Pope John Paul II visit, her one son and his wife volunteered and her other son Bryn was with Chris Hodgson – provincial liaison with the Pope.

"It was wonderful to experience all of this as a family. In 1984 we were all in Downsview Park, too [for the Pope's last Canadian visit]," says Julie.

Larissa also went to Rome two years ago for World Youth Day there and has been working for the last two years as one of a team of 10 directors to arrange the Pope's visit here.

The 27-year-old says she falls in the middle of the 18-35 years old range the event is targeted to but had no idea what kind of crowd the event would attract.

"There are different people here in Canada and the United States. This is not Europe but there was still dancing in the streets and singing in the subway," says Larissa.

The week actually went far better organizationally than she had anticipated.

In the history of World Youth Days, she explained, people usually go to catechism classes on the first day but not afterwards. All three of the Toronto sessions were really well-attended because, she says, they assigned the 15,000 pilgrims a church or place to go near where they were staying.

The youth festivals of theatre and smaller events were also well-attended, proving that those who attended were interested in the celebrating being Catholic with those from around the world.

People were not just there to witness the star power and celebrity of the Pope, although Larissa says her own brief encounter with the man, her second time meeting the Pope, was important to her.

"He grabbed the side of my face and said ciao bella. It may have even looked like he slapped me but it was a nice gesture. He's a beautiful person," she says.

For her mother, the moment the Pope descended the stairs from the airplane upon his arrival was remarkable.

"My father had Parkinson's so I know how terribly frightening it is to go down stairs. He demonstrated to youth how you can be a witness [to your faith] to your last breath. He gave dignity to the disabled," says Julie.

Toos Reid, another local parishoner, also agreed the Pope's arrival was beautiful.

"He [the Pope] amazed all of us. I understand he's suffering and not well but he continues to exude hope and to challenge us as Christians. His body may be frail but his inner strength was amazing," says Reid.

She says the Pope's message to the youth was positive while not ignoring the dark scandal that has particularly plagued the Catholic Church in the United States.

"I've done some reading and research and the abuse in the clergy is no higher a percentage than in any other profession. I think the Pope hit the nail on the head by urging us to pray for the clergy and focus on the positive," says Reid.

Rose Barry and Betty Smith, two sisters, also made the pilgrimage from Minden to Toronto and ended up camped out in the rain over the weekend sleeping "elbow to elbow" in Downsview Park.

"The weather just showed us the brotherhood and kindness of those there. We old folks felt like pilgrims by the end but the exuberance of the youth made it worth it. Sunday Mass was beautiful. We wouldn't have missed it," says Barry.

In these pictures, taken by Sheryl Loucks, a beautiful pilgrim from Guyana looks pensive as other pilgrims party at the Minden Community Centre July 20.

Landowner wants township to assume responsibility for Beaver Lake Road

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

A summer cottager on Beaver Lake Road says it's time for Minden Hills to assume responsibility for the road leading to his cottage.

After spending the last 10 years brushing, clearing and arranging for an outside contractor to grade the Beaver Lake Road, Gord Lalonde says he and other cottagers on the seasonal road need some assistance.

"I'm here to say 'Help,'" he told Minden Hills council recently in a special presentation. "I can't keep the road up to standard any more and there's no way I can clean the length of the road with the funding we raise. It can't be done by cottagers alone any more."

Just like many people on privately owned roads in the municipality, cottagers along Beaver Lake Road have been paying for the upkeep of the five kilometre stretch of roadway leading to their cottages.

The 41 cottagers who use Beaver Lake Road, which starts as South Beaver Lake Road, runs directly off Buller Road and ends at South Moore Lake Road, pay $70 each to Lalonde to maintain the road. Lalonde volunteered for the job.

As a seasonal resident, Lalonde says he spends a great deal of time, upwards of 40 hours so far this summer, clearing the road each time he is at his cottage. He says he is concerned that emergency vehicles such as fire trucks, will not be able to traverse the roadway in case of Gord Lalonde and his wife Nancy have been taking care of the five-kilometre Beaver Lake Road, which runs directly off Buller Road. Cottagers on the seasonal road pay him to brush, clear and organize for an outside contractor to grade the road. He made a trip to council last week to ask Minden Hills to assume responsibility for the road, saying that it's too much work for him to keep up with.

an accident.

"Nature's going faster than I can go," he said.

Public Works Superintendent Clayton Cameron says the road is a private road and that nobody owns it specifically, but the residents maintain it.

"Parts of it could be Crown land, parts of it may or may not belong to the municipality, and some of the residents might own it as well," he said.

Cameron says there are hundreds of miles of roads in the township that are classified as private roads.

Deputy Fire Chief Doug Schell, who is also a by-law enforcement officer for the township, said he has been to Beaver Lake Road.

"Other than low limbs, I think your road is in pretty good shape," Schell said.

Reeve Ross Rigney was not ready to discuss the issue and did not offer any formal solution to Lalonde. "Once we touch a road, we assume responsibility for it," he said. "We will make no commitments, but we will look into it."

Between Beaver Lake and Moore Lake, Lalonde said there were about 70 taxpayers who use the road from time to time, and they pay their taxes just like everyone else in the county. Lalonde says they should be getting more for their money.

"We are paying to maintain our road on top of the tax dollars we are already paying the municipality," he says. "Enough is enough. Our taxes went up like everyone else. We get to use the dump, that's all we get from our tax dollars," he said.

Councillor Peter Oyler, visibly unhappy with Lalonde's discussion on taxes, was talking under his breath during portions of Lalonde's presentation, disagreeing with several of his comments. The councillor could be heard saying, "oh come on" from his chair at the table.

Lalonde and his wife, who also helps to keep the road up to par, were concerned about liability issues related to the road. "Individual cottagers are liable if anything were to happen on that road," she said after the presentation.

Right now Lalonde says the township is concerned about opening a can of worms, but he is determined to keep the issue on the table.

The cottager says he will return to the council meeting in August to see how the township has progressed on his request to help him maintain the roadway.

Artist's love of outdoors on display at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

Bill Creighton has always enjoyed the outdoors. So, as an artist, outdoors subjects are his preference.

All artists are observant, it comes with the territory. A career with the Ministry of Natural Resources, as a biologist and in a managerial position at various locations from Cochrane to London, Creighton had plenty of opportunity to observe nature up close and personal.

Bill and his wife Sharon now make their home on a 100-acre piece of property near Wingham. The property includes two ponds managed by Ducks Unlimited.

The Creightons are friends of Fred and Sue Reid. They often spend time at the Reid cottage on Big Hawk Lake.

"We've been going to the Haliburton Highlands since the early 1970s," Creighton said. "Our kids went to Camp Kawabi."

While he's here, Creighton takes the opportunity to sketch many of the local landmarks and wildlife. Sometimes he takes the sketches, along with detailed notes regarding colours and the angle of the light, home to his studio, where he translates the information into works of art. At other times, he takes a portable kit into the field and performs his magic there.

Vivid colour or even muted tones that stand out as different or spectacular are the qualities Creighton looks for when he chooses a subject. His interests are varied and he says he doesn't want to be considered a wildlife artist above all else.

He has shared shows with several well-known artists, the most familiar name (to even the casual observer) being Robert Bateman. His paintings have graced many galleries and private collections in Canada, the United States and Europe.

Creighton has a juried one-man show at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery, titled "Paintings From My Heart" which opens this Thursday, August 8. It will feature 39 watercolour and nine acrylic paintings, as well as several limited edition prints, all of which are for sale. One of the LE prints is an artist proof, which is more valuable than the regular limited edition run. Many of the paintings are Creighton's interpretation of the flora and fauna of The Highlands. Ten of the paintings are of wildlife and the rest are landscapes, flowers and others.

Creighton has been painting for 30 years. Most of his work is watercolour, but he also does acrylic on canvas.

Visitors to the Gallery this Saturday, August 10, between 2 and 4 p.m. will have the opportunity to meet the artist in person. The show will continue for three weeks.

Among the titles that may be of special interest to local art aficionados are: Late November Evening (near Carnarvon); In The Shadows (Big Hawk Lake); Norland Pines; Misty Morning Moose (near Big Hawk Lake); Indian Head (on Big Hawk Lake); Icicles (road cut on Deep Bay Road); and Crab Falls (near Big Hawk Lake).

"I'm really excited about this show," Graham said. "I'm really looking forward to it."

Reeve wants to keep politics out of 911 process

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

The following are brief reports of items that were discussed at the August 1 meeting of Algonquin Highlands Council.

The list of road names to be changed in Algonquin Highlands has been reduced from the original 92 to 62.

As the council reviewed the final list, Reeve Eleanor Harrison warned councillors to be careful of how supportive they are to individual property owners.

"This is something politically we will have to stay out of as much as possible," she said. "There are going to be some angry people, and rightly so because some names have been around for decades, but there is not a whole lot of room for discrepancy."

Harrison said that if council started to work against the 911 committee, it could stall the entire process — a process that is already months behind schedule. She was concerned that if individual politicians started lobbying for disgruntled citizens, the 911 process would never move forward.

"Right now there is a final list and the Stanhope Airport Manager John Packer presents Algonquin Highlands Reeve Eleanor Harrison with a watercolour painting of the airport from 1987. The artist, Norm Wynott, vacationed in the Haliburton Highlands in the 1980s and gave the painting to the airport. It will be displayed in the council chambers. "It's amazing how the airport has changed," Packer said.

only thing that could change it is political involvement and we can't have political interference at this point."

Deputy-Reeve Don Shortreed supported Harrison. "We've given the committee members a job to do and now we should let them do it," he said.

Councillor Jim Hicks asked council what he should do if people start to contact him regarding the road names.

Harrison said he should refer anyone with questions or concerns to the committee members.

"It's not been an easy process for the committee members and they won't have time to go back to all the individuals. They are trying to notify people as best they can."

While a number of road names that must be changed were in the northern part of Algonquin Highlands, Chief Administrative Officer Gerald Bain said the majority were from the geographical area of Stanhope. Some of the names that need to be changed include: Hally Hawk Road, Deer Path, Gunter Lane, Kushog Mountain Road, Paws Way and Viking Trail.

Tennis Courts

The township is looking at paying big bucks to repair the tennis courts on North Shore Road.

After one or two complaints were filed at the township office earlier in the summer about cracks that were only getting bigger in the two double and one single courts, the township decided to find out how much it was going to cost to repair them.

Hicks said it will cost $13,800 to repair the two tennis courts and $2,000 for repairs to the smaller multi-purpose court. GST will be extra.

"This is a considerable amount of money," said Public Works Superintendent Brian Whetstone. "The courts are still in good shape and it's worthwhile preserving them."

Whetstone said the wear and tear on the courts is considered normal, taking into account the lifespan of the courts, especially with their type of acrylic surface.

The only glitch is that it's costly to repair. Harrison said the money had not been allocated in this year's budget and the municipality didn't have the money to do the repairs this summer.

"We will have to fix them, there is no choice about that, it will have to be done," she said. "It will have to go to the next budget and we will have to fix there. There's no question about that. We will have to find the money."

The township received a donation of $210 toward the repair from a couple who frequently use the courts.

"It's a nice gesture but it's a long way from the actual cost," Bain said.

Bain said the donation box at the courts has not had a single penny in it over the past little while.

The township will write letters to the few people who have complained about the cracks and will outline the plans to fix them in the future.

Tourism minister likes Haliburton's marketing plan

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

Just over two years ago, the Ontario Ministry of Tourism and Recreation issued a grant of $250,000 to the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce to develop a marketing strategy for the county.

Tourism Minister Cam Jackson was in the Highlands recently and he contacted the Chamber's Carol Moffatt for a one-on-one meeting to discuss how the Ministry's money was spent and what the county had to show for it.

Moffatt showed the minister the image branding, the website and the product development strategy.

The development strategy showcases what Haliburton County has to offer, compared to neighbouring counties and outlines a plan to capitalize on the county's strengths and features.

Moffatt said the Minister was impressed with "the terrific job the county has done."

Among the proposals are the development of a Hiking Festival and an Adventure Racing Festival. She said Jackson was especially excited about the Hiking Festival, which would incorporate hiking with other activities and occur in the fall, during the "shoulder season" when the transition between summer and winter activities is under way.

"This is really exciting," Moffatt said. "The county is poised to be the leader in the province for eco-tourism and cultural tourism. The seed money created the momentum, now we need the money to implement the plan."

Moffatt quotes Jackson as saying: "This could be the signature event for the county," and "Haliburton County has come a long way."

The plan for a Hiking Festival has most of the details already worked out, right down to an event-ending Saturday night dance called "The Blister Ball."

The Minister liked what has been done and Moffatt said he would have the plan analyzed and see if some funding could be made available to implement it.

Moffatt is cautiously optimistic that Jackson may be able to deliver some funding.

"It bodes well that I was able to have a one-on-one meeting with the minister," she said, adding that he liked what has been done to develop a plan.

"We know where we're headed," she said. "We have the plan on paper."

Moffatt pointed out the plan would have minimal costs for the county, the municipalities or the business community while providing maximum benefit. The big commitment that will be needed is volunteer work to make it happen. "People have to get involved. This will be a one shot deal and if the community doesn't get on side, we'll forever be known as the county that never quite made it," she said. "It has to be by the community, for the community."

Moffatt stressed that the plan is not competition of businesses within Haliburton County - it is competition between Haliburton County businesses and businesses in Muskoka, Kawartha Lakes, Peterborough and other neighbouring counties. She is convinced that if the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation is able to provide the funding and the community gets onside, Haliburton County is destined to be the leader in the province in what promises to be the economic wave of the future.

First Public Notice

FISH STOCKING IN NEW WATERS PROPOSED IN THE MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES' BANCROFT DISTRICT

The Ministry of Natural Resources is proposing to stock Rainbow Trout into two local lakes, which historically have not been inhabited by this species.

The lakes this Ministry is proposing to stock are:

- a) Horseshoe Lake, Minden Township - Introduce Rainbow Trout to a lake which previously supported lake trout and warm water species.
- b) Glamor Lake, Glamorgan and Monmouth Township - Introduce Rainbow Trout to a lake in which the current Lake Trout population is in decline.

The purpose of this proposal is to provide new short and long term angling opportunities for trout and divert some of the present heavy fishing pressure away from current lake trout fisheries in the district. The contribution of this proposal will also help in the achievement of targets for cold water angling opportunities identified in the Minden District Land Use Guidelines. The project is being planned in accordance with an approved Class "C" Environmental Assessment for small Scale MNR Projects. This notice is intended to give you the opportunity to provide input to the planning of this project. Where you feel, after consulting with MNR staff, that serious environmental concerns remain unresolved it is your right to request that the project be subject to an individual environmental assessment under the Environmental Assessment Act. The decision rests with the Minister of the Environment.

Comments and information collected regarding this proposal will be kept on file unless otherwise requested, will be available for public review.

You are invited to direct any inquiries, or comments regarding the introduction of Rainbow Trout in Horseshoe Lake of Minden Township, and Glamor Lake of Glamorgan and Monmouth Township by August 31st 2002.

Keep private roads private

Increasing numbers of people seem to be petitioning the municipality to assume responsibility for maintenance of their private roads. The cost of maintaining roads continues to escalate and people who have cottages on private roads may be finding it difficult to cope with the cost.

The solution? Turn it over to the municipality. Call it uploading. It is the same as the higher levels of government downloading the costs of services for which they formerly took responsibility, only from the other end. If you spread the cost of maintaining a private road over the entire taxpayer base, nobody would notice a few cents here or there, they may reason.

A statement often heard when a taxpayer is angry about something or requesting something of the municipality is "We pay our taxes like everybody else and the only thing we get is the use of the dump."

These people don't seem to be aware that they have the same use of all the roads the municipality does maintain. Granted, some of those public roads could stand some repairs, but without raising taxes to a point where they would be flooded with complaints, municipal politicians must examine the proposals by the managers of their road crews, prioritize them and work within their budgets.

Taxes go toward the provision of many things besides the maintenance of the road system, although roads are a major expense for all municipalities.

Emergency services are provided through municipal taxes. We all buy insurance, reluctantly in most cases, to protect us in the event of an unforeseen emergency. Taxes collected by the municipality put police officers on the road in this county. Police officers respond to emergencies on private roads as well as public roads. The same applies to fire department and ambulance personnel. In the case of fire departments and ambulance services, local governments must also provide equipment and training to make sure personnel have the resources and knowledge to perform their duties. Has anyone priced a fire truck lately?

The operation of a municipality takes staff and equipment. Municipalities can't operate without staff. Our politicians take every opportunity to praise the work municipal staff members do on their, and our, behalf. The trucks that keep the roads ploughed and sanded in the winter and haul gravel and asphalt for road repairs the rest of the year, as well as the graders, backhoes, bulldozers and other equipment are expensive to buy and maintain. Computers, office equipment, the operation of recreational facilities such as the arena, upkeep of cemeteries, parks, libraries, art galleries, museums and a variety of other services are provided by our municipal and county governments and funded by the taxes we all pay. And then there are social services... the list goes on and on.

So, the argument that the only bang a taxpayer gets for his or her buck is a dump card just doesn't cut it. Tax money provides considerably more than the opportunity to use the dump. If property owners want to upload responsibility for their private roads to municipal governments, they are going to have to find a more convincing argument than the complaint that they don't get much for their tax dollars.

If our municipal politicians can be convinced to assume responsibility for the maintenance of private roads, maybe the rest of us taxpayers can also talk them into keeping our private driveways cleared of snow in the winter.

Letter of the law costly

To the Editor:

First let me admit that, I'm guilty of enjoying a peaceful paddle with my two grandchildren on our paddleboat (sorry pleasurecraft under 6 meters). My grandchildren, aged four and six, both had their lifejackets on. I was sitting on a cushion with a label stating approved by the D.T.O. We were untied from the dock but not yet more than six feet from the dock where my daughter was sitting, enjoying the fun and both neighbours were on their docks watching all the action. Our intention was to paddle back and forth between our dock and our neighbours. What happened next I'm still trying to comprehend. We were pulled over by the police who asked us where our bailing bail was, as well as whistle, throw rope, paddle (woops on checking his little rule book they found that we didn't need a paddle) and to my surprise our D.O.T. approved cushion was no longer approved as a small vessel flotation device, and OH yes I didn't have any identification on my person. He asked twice what the make of my paddle boat was but I didn't have an ownership to check the make and model. Next, you guessed it a ticket, deserved yes, but to the tune of $240.00 is a little bit ridiculous. Had I been in the middle of the lake I would understand a fine but in my bathing suit less than six feet from shore? We have always taught our children to obey the law and respect the police but it seems there is always one bad apple in the barrel to spoil the general image. The next time a jetski passes your cottage at a high rate of speed remember that the police are too busy chasing paddle boats to bother with jet skis!

Boat buying made easy

Call me crazy but I'm thinking of buying a pair of decommissioned Royal Navy destroyers. And between you and me, I think I can get them at a rock bottom price. That's what happens when a buyer is patient.

Her Majesty retired these two warships from service a short while ago and, to date, she has had no offers of purchase. I don't know this for sure but I imagine they are causing quite an eyesore sitting on the front lawn of Buckingham Palace with the hand-painted "For Sale" signs. With any luck at all, the neighbours are probably complaining by now.

Maybe that's why there is some talk of taking them out for one last ride and torpedoing both of them in the mid-Atlantic. Obviously, the time is right to low ball them.

Yesterday I had a good look in the piggy-bank and I figure I could offer about $15 Canadian per ocean-going vessel.

That's thirty dollars in cold hard cash that Her Majesty could use for something more constructive than sinking two perfectly good ships. You could buy a used garden gnome of two for that kind of money. Also, I imagine those torpedoes cost a pretty penny these days, so she ought to think of the savings there too. It makes sense, right?

Oh, sure, she'll say that my offer is not nearly enough, hardly fair and an insult to boot. That's a pretty standard response when haggling for boats. But we'll both know that I've got Her right where I want Her. After all, this is simply about supply and demand and the boat season is rapidly nearing an end. I'll say $30; she'll say $45. I'll laugh and walk away and the Queen will chase me down the driveway and offer to throw in a life jacket and paddle.

But, of course, I won't budge. She'll call me tomorrow and I'll pop over for a beer and we'll both laugh as she counts the greenbacks. Yes, I'm a slick operator. It's pretty well a done deal.

Why would anyone want two ships weighing over 100 tons and 200 feet long? Well, it's a good question and one that my wife will ask several times. She'll look at me smugly and say that the Royals are probably selling them for a reason and if it seems too good to be true, it probably is.

But, oh, how wrong she'll be. The way I see it, I could use one on the back pond for duck hunting and the other to tool around the County with. I figure if I put a big old Evinrude, say a 40 hp on it, it ought to troll just nicely. And since these things are designed for the North Atlantic, I won't ever have to ice fish again. We'll just plow through the ice and I'll fish the open water in the wake. I think I'm going to paint it blue.

And while my wife might be a bit upset at me for taking advantage of the Royals, I think she'll see things my way when she realizes the savings in ice fishing gear alone.

Naturally, that might be offset by the fact that I'm going to have to buy a truck with a V-8 to pull it with. But in the long run I think it will be well worth it. The kids will love diving off the stern in summer time and we'll be able to pull several water skiers at once.

Now you'll have to excuse me, I've got to get back to practising backing up the trailer.

I read the news today, d'oh boy

I'm dedicating today's column to Homer. Not Homer of The Iliad and The Odyssey – Homer of Springfield. The donut-chompin', Duff beer guzzlin' Homer.

Homer Simpson gets the nod because he's the guy who gave us the perfect monosyllabic reaction that so expressively sums up so much of what happens in the world today.

I refer of course, to that exquisite philosophical summation: "D'oh!"

It's what Homer says when someone points out to him the error of his ways. Such as trying to make gravy in the bathtub. Or waxing the car with Marge's wedding dress. When Homer (infrequently though it be) realizes he has erred, wandered or just been plain stupid, he slaps his forehead with the heel of his hand and utters the immortal phrase: "D'oh!"

And that's what I feel like doing when I read some of the stuff in the news lately. Such as? Well, how about the news story that the latest anti-smoking ads designed to discourage kids from taking up smoking are a flop? A study says the ad campaign, far from turning kids away from tobacco, actually makes kids want to light up.

And who was behind the anti-smoking campaign? Why, a company by the name of... Phillip Morris.

D'oh! Here's another of my favourite recent headlines: "Snowmobiles cause stress."

Seems research biologists studying wolf packs in two U.S. parks, Voyageurs National Park in Minnesota and Isle Royale National Park in Michigan, have noticed a curious anomaly – the hormone levels of wolves and elk in Voyageurs Park show high levels of stress; the levels of Isle Royale animals do not.

Voyageurs National Park is a popular site for snowmobiles.

Snowmobiles are banned in Isle Royale National Park.

What's more, the stress levels in the animals where snowmobiles are permitted...go up during snowmobile season...and down when the snow melts.

D'oh!

Then there's the story out of California. You know California – land of 'rolling brownouts' and stratospheric electricity charges? One way citizens there could lower their insanely high power bills would be to turn off their clothes dryers and take advantage of the sunshine. Sure – hang their clothes out to dry on clotheslines – make sense, right?

Wrong. Nearly all of California's 35,000 homeowners' associations specifically ban the use of clotheslines. Why? Reduces property values.

No clotheslines in the Sunshine State. It's the law.

D'oh!

And then there was the news that a gentleman by the name of Mohammed Nour

Alcohol and Drugs action group would welcome more volunteers

To the Editor:

I have been reading with much interest, about the legal liability issues presented in your paper and recent related events. I thought it would be timely to let your readers know about the Community Action Group on Alcohol and Drugs (CAG).

We work with the OPP, Trillium Lakelands School Board and Health for Life to coordinate and deliver drug, tobacco and alcohol education to youth in our schools. We actively fundraise and promote alcohol awareness through such activities as Drug Awareness Week, Arrive Alive Bottle Drives and OPP/VR Wingnut Hockey games. One of the greatest challenges we face is recruitment of new community members who see irresponsible alcohol and drug use as issues in our community and who wish to volunteer their time and ideas to bring about needed change.

We would welcome anyone to our next CAG meeting who would like to find out more about us or participate at some level. Our next meeting is on September 17, 2002 at 3:45 pm at the high school, or call Tricia McCarthy at the FourCAST office 457-1630.

Property owners enlightened at South Lake AGM

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

The annual general meeting of the South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents (SLACAR) was held at the Gelert Community Centre July 20. Attendees were greeted by SLACAR President Ray Lymer. One of the first orders of business was the presentation of $500 to the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation. Executive Director of the Foundation, Dale Walker, was on hand to accept the donation.

Sergeant Phil Bronson of the Haliburton Highlands Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police attended the meeting to talk about the Cottage Watch Program as well as marine safety and regulations. Bronson is a 15-year veteran of the OPP, the last 11 of which he has worked in cottage country. He has been with the local detachment for three years.

Bronson pointed out that break and enters are lower here than other areas of the province, especially Muskoka. Three years ago, Haliburton County ranked 14th in the OPP's Central Region in prevention of B&Es. Two years ago, the county had improved to number three and last year ranked number one. Central Region encompasses the area from the shore of Lake Ontario to Huntsville and west to the Barrie area.

Bronson gave a brief history of the Cottage Watch Program, noting that it was formed in the South Porcupine (Timmins) area in 1993-94.

Bronson said South Lake is one of the best in Haliburton County with regard to B&Es. He noted that Snowdon Township had only 10 B&Es this year. "That's very low," he said.

Public co-operation is vital to the OPP in investigating B&Es, Bronson explained. He said a report from one observant individual resulted in the arrest of a young offender, which cleared 120 B&Es. "Extra information makes a big difference," he said.

That's where the Cottage Watch members can help. Bronson pointed out that it is often the small details that many people may think are unimportant that mean the difference between a case being solved or not. He said that during one investigation the neighbour of a property that had been broken into was questioned. During the discussion, she said she had heard terrible thumping and banging coming from the neighbour's cottage at two in the morning that kept her awake. When he asked her why she hadn't called the police, she said she didn't think of it.

Although the SLACAR members haven't formed a formal Cottage Watch Committee yet, President Ray Lymer said there has always been an unofficial form of Cottage Watch on the lake.

Just the presence of Cottage Watch signs can have a deterrent effect, Bronson pointed out. "Crooks are lazy," he said. "Most bad guys don't want to be bothered making any special effort. They just go somewhere else."

He suggested that if a property owner is away for any length of time, a chain should be stretched across the entrance so thieves don't have access by vehicle. If they have to carry their loot any distance, chances are they won't make the effort.

The Haliburton Highlands OPP Detachment has the use of two ATVs and Bronson said there is no shortage of officers who are willing to patrol cottage areas during the off-season. He said he would like to have an up-to-date list of property owners, with contact information. "A list makes a big difference to us," he said. "We're number one, let's stay that way."

The formation of a Cottage Watch Committee is the first step. Bronson said the committee would meet regularly with the OPP for the exchange of information. "It is a big benefit to both the property owners and the OPP," he said.

Property identification is important when items are stolen. By recording serial numbers and/or engraving unique identification numbers on items that might be the target of thieves, property owners have a better chance of recovering their possessions. Power tools often don't have unique serial numbers. Bronson said the local OPP Detachment has engravers that it will lend to anyone who wishes to engrave identification numbers on their possessions.

Small outboard motors (under 10 horsepower) are one of the top items thieves target. Portable generators are another prized item to thieves. "If you have a 10 horsepower outboard and it's not locked, you can expect it to be stolen," Bronson said.

Bronson also talked about boating and marine safety. He provided brochures which outline the new regulations and licensing requirements. He noted that the OPP, during marine patrols, will have a zero tolerance for personal floatation device (life jacket) infractions. If a boat is checked and there aren't enough life jackets of the proper size and rating for everyone onboard, fines will be issued.

Minden Hills Reeve Ross Rigney brought greetings from the municipality. He told the group that the new Official Plan is being developed and encouraged them to have their say. "We want input from everybody," he said. "Don't wait until it's done."

He said the new Limberlost facility in the Minden Business Park has realized council's goal of providing a place for businesses to operate and, at the same time, generate some taxes for the municipality. He said that after several years of development of the site and working to attract businesses, "now we have some tax money coming from the business park."

Rigney told the members of the group, "You've got an excellent representative in (Councillor) Ron Buchanan."

Rigney noted that taxes will eventually have to increase. "We don't have enough money coming in to proper road work," Rigney said, adding that $1.5-million will have to be spent on bridges over the next 10 years, so $150,000 will have to be budgeted each year for the next 10 years. He noted that the Salerno Lake bridge is first on the list for repairs.

Councillor Buchanan, who represents Snowdon Township on Minden Hills Council, was asked if he had anything to say. He spoke about several issues he felt would be of concern to the SLACAR members.

He started off by telling the group he is accessible. "If you have any problems, just call me," he said. "I don't mind."

Buchanan said the staff members of Minden Hills are very well organized. He noted that the first year of the amalgamation process was a challenge for politicians, but staff handled it very well. He said road maintenance is at par or better than it was before the amalgamation. In spite of the amalgamations, he said half a million dollars had to be cut from the budget. This year ratepayers are facing an increase in taxes. Buchanan said it averages out to about $40 per household.

The subject of landfill is a top priority for Buchanan. He said it costs hundreds of thousands of dollars for studies and engineer reports and suggested the county needs a local recycling plant to help solve the problem of where to get rid of garbage. He pointed out, for example, that if enough propane tanks can be collected, a company will come and pick them up at no charge. He believes other opportunities to save are available that would eliminate the need to pay someone to take the municipality's recyclables away. "It would pay to visit some European countries to see how they deal with garbage," Buchanan said.

Regarding the hazardous waste days, Buchanan is concerned about the cost. He said it will cost the municipality $12,000 or a half day. He estimated it would cost about $40 to dispose of a spray can, which is not considered a hazard around the house. "I'm all for not putting hazardous waste in the dump," he said. But he wasn't sure the municipality was getting full value for what it is spending on hazardous waste disposal.

Other subjects that were discussed briefly included bears, 9-1-1.

It was pointed out that now is the time that bears are beginning the process of fattening up for next winter's hibernation. It was also noted that the MNR is reluctant to relocate bears because unless they are transported a long distance, they will return. Another reason is that relocated bears usually just become someone else's problem.

Councillor Buchanan said he is confident the implementation of 9-1-1 is progressing well. "I have faith that it will be completed within three years," he said.

Ray Lymer, President of the South Lake Association of Cottagers and Residents welcomed members and guests to the Association's annual general meeting.

All is normal on the Trent Severn

by Allison Taylor

Fierce thunderstorms, downpours and rainy nights not have had a huge impact on the water levels in Minden and Haliburton, as levels remain at average levels for this time of year, said an official at the Trent Severn Waterway.

"For the beginning of August, the levels are not bad," said Mac Ellis of the Trent Severn Waterway office in Haliburton. "If you're doing average, then how can it be bad?"

Last week water levels in Haliburton averaged to about 76.9% of full capacity.

A lake's capacity is a measurement of how much water can be drawn down by removing logs at the dam. If the distance between the top and bottom of the logs is 60 cm, then the lake would be at 50% capacity when the height of the logs measures 30 cm.

The rain in the south over the past week has helped raise levels to about 0.5% above the 27-year-average, which doesn't amount to a big difference overall, Ellis says.

"Half of 1% is so small that we might as well be saying the water levels are normal," Ellis said last week. "On average the levels drop 0.5% a day so we are within the normal levels of one day. Half a per cent is so close that it doesn't make a huge difference.

If it was 10% above or below, then it would make a difference."

While more precipitation fell over the past weekend and the water levels increased slightly on most of the lakes, the fact that a few lakes have now exceeded normal summer levels is not anything to raise the alarms about, Ellis said.

"The weather changes so fast," he said, "just a few weeks ago a drought hit and the TSW started taking a 0.5% draw."

The Gull and Burnt rivers are flowing at about 13 cubic meters per second and five cubic metres per second respectively, and are expected to remain steady.

"Develop interest in life as you see it; in people, things literature, music - the world is so rich, simply throbbing with rich treasures, beautiful souls and interesting people. Forget yourself."

Henry Miller (1891 - 1980, Author)

Along the lines of the above quote, why not head out to The Stanhope Community Hall on Tuesday, August 6 for "An Evening With . . ." geologist John Etches for an encore presentation of his highly entertaining discussion of one of our township's oldest mysteries. Was Hall's Lake created by a meteorite? Now you can find out.

John will be at The Stanhope Community Hall again on Tuesday, August 27 to answer "Where Has All The Water

Flowers in bloom

Gone?" He will be explaining why our lakes are depleted each year and will demonstrate with a working model. The Stanhope Community Hall is on North Shore Road, off Highway 35 just north of Carnarvon. Admission is $2 and refreshments will be available. For more information, you can call Carol Moffatt at 489-3554. These informative presentations are brought to you by The Stanhope Heritage Museum.

The next Dorset Lions event is the annual Fish Derby to be held on Sunday, September 1 at Lions Camp Dorset at 4 p.m. Refreshments will be available and weigh-in takes place between 4 and 6 p.m. The camp will be open from 2pm for swimming and other activities. Dinner is at 6 p.m. The cost is $15 for adults and $8 for children under 12. This fee includes the buffet. You can fish in any of the local lakes and there are trophies for largest bass, largest trout, largest "open" fish, largest bass (child under 12), largest trout (child under 12) and Lions Challenge (Lions Only). Tickets are available from Camp Dorset, Mountain Trout House and Tower Hill Marinas or any Lion Member. For more information, call Fred at 766-2541 or Esther at 766-2830.

Here's a reminder about The Dorset Garden Tour, featuring award winning gardens and light refreshments, on Saturday, August 10 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., presented by The Dorset Blooms Committee. Brochures and maps are available at The Dorset Heritage Museum, Robinson's General Store and the Dorset Recreation Centre. All donations will support the beautification of our community.

I don't have any birthday wishes this week. Do you have a loved one you'd like a birthday or anniversary wish sent out to? Give me a call and let me know.

H.H. To create a nifty cheese garnish, use a potato peeler to make cheese peels for decorating salads, soups and more.

Time is flying at the Fleury household

By the time you read this column Bruce and I will have returned from his hometown of Deep River, Ontario. Now I usually avoid reunions like the plague. This is mainly due to failing to reach ridiculous, self-imposed weight loss targets before making my grand entrance. Bruce, on the other hand, cannot wait to join several of his friends from MacKenzie High's first graduating class to celebrate the School's 50th birthday.

He still remembers that September day in 1945 when he and his parents arrived from Toronto. With shoes in hand they walked, led by his Fire Chief dad through the deep sand to their first house, a "wartime six" model at #9 Pine. Deep River was the townsite for the Atomic Energy Plant at Chalk River, and the Fleurys one of its founding families. It was an idyllic place to grow up, not just in its breathtaking location right on the Ottawa River sheltered by the Laurentians, but because of the role models that provided such strong leadership and encouragement. Scientific work and family activities had to, of necessity, remain separate. In response, the town soon developed a host of clubs and leisure activities. These opportunities, and the community enrichment they provided, greatly influenced Bruce's later career choice as a respected professional in the field of recreation, parks and culture.

Everyone is welcome to attend the Minden and District Horticulture Society Meeting on August 6 at 7:15 p.m. at the Minden Community Centre. Pat Campbell of Campbell's Garden Centre will take the topic "Your Gardening and Showing Questions Answered." Bring along your favourite item for the lunch theme "Berry Nice Treats." Nancy Garbutt is the contact member, at 286-1843.

Speaking of gardens, the City of Kawartha Lakes is a participant in the "Communities in Bloom" competition. Judging will take place in several locations throughout the City, including Kinmount. On the afternoon of Friday, August 9, our Town will formally welcome the judges at the new gazebo in the Austin Sawmill Heritage Park overlooking the river. The Kinmount Committee for Planning and Economic Development deserves much credit for the beautiful barrels and hanging baskets that brighten our community. We can all contribute to its ongoing volunteer efforts by sprucing up our own "little corner of the world."

August workshops at the Kinmount Artisans Marketplace will include Twig Furniture with Sandra Weyrich on Saturday, August 17 and One Stroke Folk Art with Lori Raymond on Saturday, August 24. For information/registration contact Sandra at 705-286-4370 or Lori at 705-488-3089.

Cheryl Lafferty teaches Folk Art there on a weekly basis, and can be reached at 488-1177 regarding her schedules, projects and fees.

Before listing the scoring news this is Column #35 from my laptop. Time indeed does fly. Thank you to the network of community "reporters" who faithfully call in their weekly information.

THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF ALGONQUIN HIGHLANDS NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETINGS FOR A NEW TOWNSHIP ZONING BY-LAW

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Algonquin Highlands will hold a Public Meeting pursuant to Section 17 of the Planning Act on:

Saturday, August 24, 2002
at 1:00 p.m. at the
Dorset Community Centre
District Rd. 39 (Main Street)
Dorset, Ontario

An Open House will begin at 12:00 Noon, followed by the formal Public Meeting at 1:00 p.m.

The purpose of the Public Meeting is to obtain public comments on a proposed new Zoning By-law that will apply to the entire Municipality which is intended to replace By-law #85-7 (former Township of Stanhope Zoning By-law) and By-law #98-08 (former Township of Sherborne et al Zoning By-law). The proposed Zoning By-law will affect all lands within the Township, therefore no map is provided as part of this notice.

The purpose of the proposed Zoning By-law is to prohibit the use of land and the erection of buildings and structures except for such purposes as are set out in this Zoning By-law and to regulate the type of construction, height, bulk, location, size, floor area, spacing, character and use of buildings or structures on the lands covered by this By-law. The Zoning By-law is intended to conform with and implement the policies contained within the Township's Official Plan.

The majority of the provisions in the new by-law will be similar to the provisions in By-law #85-7 and #98-08. A number of "housekeeping" changes are proposed, to simplify the wording and use of the Zoning By-law.

The Zoning By-law contains a number of new definitions and provides additional regulations for such uses as boathouses, sleeping cabins, home industries, home occupations, and tourist establishments.

Additional information relating to the proposed Zoning By-law, including a copy of the proposed Zoning By-law, is available for inspection at the Township Office during regular hours (9:00 am to 5:00 pm).

Any person or agency may attend and provide representation at the Public Meeting and/or make written representation prior to the meeting, either in support of, or in opposition to, the proposed Zoning By-law.

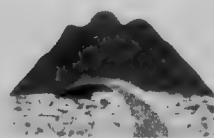

If a person or public body that files an appeal of a decision of the Township of Algonquin Highlands in respect of the proposed Zoning By-law does not make oral submissions at the Public Meeting, or make a written submission to the Township before the proposed Zoning By-law is adopted, the Ontario Municipal Board may dismiss all or part of the appeal.

If you wish to be notified of the adoption of the proposed Zoning By-law, you must make a written request to the Clerk of the Township.

Once Council has received all of the information that it feels is required, it may defer, reject or approve the Zoning By-law or may approve the Zoning By-law with amendments.

Dated at the Township of Algonquin Highlands on the 25th day of July, 2002.

Keep the spirits at bay with 'white rabbits'

Have you said "White Rabbit" three times in a row yet? Well we think you should as according to old Irish folklore that's all it takes to keep the spirits away for the month of August. It seems August arrived while we weren't looking just blending together with its hot summer days. It's hard to believe we're this far along through our summer already. Is it us, or does winter seem to go by much slower? Perhaps if we were more able to get out and about winter wouldn't seem as long. But enough of that thought - on with our news.

We left off last Thursday just as the Carnarvon UCW ladies were arriving to host our monthly Birthday Tea. What a grand tea it was, with a wonderful birthday cake being served, compliments of the ladies. Thank you for all you brought and your excellent company.

"Doris and Friends" came by on Friday. The group consisted of Doris Robertson, of course, along with friends Leroy Nesbitt, Wendy Bartlett, Betty Hicks, Phil Couture, Shirley Davis and Linda Robertson. The name says it all, just like having friends over for a fun evening of music.

Saturday brought the Bingo buffs out and it was reported all had a good time. The jackpot winner was Mary Goldsmith.

Jack and Ruth brought their musical talent and songs galore so we had a good time singing along. Thank you for your faithfulness and kindness each week.

We had an interesting Trivia on Monday with Nancy. We not only remembered the past but were brought up to date on the new terminology. The general consensus over what one would have to eat if they were having company for dinner was roast beef and mashed potatoes; this was obviously a favourite dish.

Also on Monday, Betty Hicks came in as she wished to share her anniversary cake with her mother (Besse Burke) along with other residents. It was a kind and thoughtful gesture, not to mention a delicious one. Thank you Betty.

That evening we sat back to enjoy movie night and this time we watched the family movie "Rigoletto."

At Chapel on Tuesday we had a thoughtful memorial service for Alice Morrison. We will miss her and seeing her family, who often stopped to speak to us when they visited.

Once again on Wednesday we played bingo and this time we have all of the winners' names. They split the jackpot four ways, between Lillian Harrison, Alice Sedgewick, Betty Dawson and Marg Besse. Congratulations to all!

It was nice that Ruth Fiddler was able to visit family at the cottage on Wednesday. It does one good to get out once in a while, especially with family. It also did Bea Britain good when she saw her brother and his wife, who came all the way from California to visit.

This week we have another visitor to welcome. It is nice to have Eileen Crawford visiting for awhile.

Keep watching Senior League this month as we are excited to be going on a little trip we have planned.

So, as we try to keep cool, we'll keep in touch next week.

Here is a thought we all should work towards daily so we'll leave it with you.

Whatever you are, be that,
Whatever you do, be true,
Be honest in fact,
Straightforwardly act,
Be nobody else,
But you!

440 THANK YOU

NORM AND I wish to give a big "Thank you" to the executive of the H.C.S.A.; also, to Joe and Myrlene for hosting a very enjoyable day, and BBQ, in honour of our "retiring" from the club! After 30+ years of snow-mobiling and being active members in the H.C.S.A., we feel it's time to 'slow down'. We've enjoyed our time with the club and all the folks whom we have worked with. We hope to keep in touch with you all. Our best wishes for a successful year and, again, our heartfelt thanks for your kindness. Norm and Wilam Gemmell.

440 THANK YOU

THE WEATHER HAD a few tricks up its sleeve but with true pioneer spirit we survived to enjoy the sun a few hours later.
Thanks to all who participated in the 5th Quilt, Rug & Fibre Show, July 26 - 28, on the Minden Museum Grounds. Elsewhere, in this issue, you will find the winners of the block contest and the overall Viewer's Choice winner. We'd like to thank the many who donated gifts - the recipients being Mrs.
Newton, Carolyn Stewart, Pat
Woodcroft, Linda Kellet, Mabel
Deacon, Jean Smart, Shelley
Morland, Willamay Lee, Peggy
Vidocz, Mary Ann McElroy,
Pam Bessey, Moira Crawford,
Elli from Schomberg, Yvonne
Gibson, Jeannie Jenkins, Elaine
Blakey, and Helen Crawford.
Congratulations to all for a show well done.

460 OBITUARIES

CALVERLEY, JOHN WILLIAM
"JACK": On Thursday, July 18,
at Peterborough Regional Health Centre, many people lost a good friend. Jack Calverley was known for his humour and generosity, his love of gossip and good Scotch. His charm and story-telling skills were legendary. Jack was a devoted husband to his wife Cath, who predeceased him, and brother of Harold (deceased) and Ken in Ajax and Marjorie in U.K. He was a proud uncle to several nephews and nieces.
He lived in Gelert and wintered in Florida and will live on in the hearts of those of us who knew and loved him. Farewell, old friend - Rest in Peace.
